The Canadian Journal of Public Health – the official organ of the Canadian Public Health Association – is the only Canadian scientific journal focussed exclusively on public health issues in Canada and around the world.

The Canadian Journal of Public Health is a professional journal which carries a wide variety of in-depth articles on all aspects of public health, including epidemiology, nutrition, family health, environmental health, sexually transmitted diseases, gerontology, behavioural medicine, rural health, health promotion and public health policy. The editorial content is peer reviewed, and the editorial board is made up of public health experts from around the world.

Public health care professionals have a great influence on the lives of their clients and patients and are opinion leaders within their communities. In these days of constrained hospital budgets and the need to keep health care expenditures under control, the role of the public health care professional becomes even more important.

Reach this large, extremely important and influential audience with your marketing message through the pages of the official professional publication – the Canadian Journal of Public Health.
